

Prof. H. N. Shankar

Profile

He obtained his Bachelor of Engineering in Electrical Engineering from UVCE, Bangalore, M. Sc (Engg.) by research, from the dept. of Electrical Engg, IISc, and Ph. D. from the dept. of Electrical Engg, IISc. He held a research associate position at IISc for 6 months thereafter.

He has been with P.E.S. Institute of Technology, Bangalore, India, since 2000. He is presently a professor in the dept. of Telecom Engg., of PESIT.

He has over 25 publications in International and National Journals/Conferences and two book chapters by International publishers. He has delivered several invited talks, chaired technical sessions and served on the review committees of International Seminars/Conferences.

He is a co-inventor of a World Wide Patent (filed) on Speech Processing applications.

Areas of Research Interest include:

Adaptive Control, Voice over Internet Protocol (VoIP), Biomedical Signal Processing, e-learning & Robotics

Others:

- Member, Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE)
- Was Adjunct Associate Fellow of National Institute of Advanced Studies, Bangalore, for 3 years.
- Short-term courses: 2